REPUBLICAN CONTROL OF CONGRESS ASSURED

BUSINESS METHODS ONLY CAN SAVE OUR GOVERNMENT, SAYS "AL" SMITH, OF N. Y.

BY EDWARD THIERRY

New York, Nov 9—"Political government is sliding backward. The people won't stand for that—in New York state or anywhere else. They want it to keep moving forward."

That is the way Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for governor of New York, explained for NEA service his political doctrine.

In an interview on the eve of election the former governor told his ideas of the significance of the 1922 election and his estimate of what it is the people want.

"The most significant thing in this election as the popular demand for progress as against reaction," said Smith. "It is the public welfare vessus special interests; representative government as against autocratic rule.

'The demand is for business methods—a system in political government that keeps pace with modern progress Now New York state has had two years of Republican rule, immediately following my two years as governor, and the state government has slipped backward.

"It isn't only Governor Miller who has gone back He couldn't have done it without his party It is indicative of the retrogression of the Republican party nationally. The tariff is an illustration.

Smith said he believed the people want these changes:

"First, they want a government they can understand. Second they want economy in government, and in public service

"Not one person in 10,000 understands what the state government is all about It is too cumbersome. And not ten out of 210 in the Legislature know what is in the budgets

"There is too much privilege. The fellow that has something can get more. The fellow that has nothing can get nothing

'No private business today would be operated on the same plan used 50 years ago. Yet that is what is happening in New York (We are operating under an archaic constitution of 1873.

"Reforms were instituted, but the Republic administration undid the work The biggest thing was the effort I made in 1919-1920 to reduce the machinery of government from some 180 departments to 18. Governor Miller killed that.

New York Has Lagged Behind.

"Now I'm going to tackle that job again. But it cannot operate for two years. If Miller hadn't interfered it would be operating now. The governor of any state is like the chairman of a board of directors of a corporation Imagine a corporation with a board of nearly 200 members! It can't function."

Smith said that New York was lagging behind other states that had adopted progressive methods.

"Our state is the largest in population and wealth," he said, "and naturally it moves slowly But we can't afford to stand still while others move ahead. These are progressive days. The people of the country are watching us."

Smith mentioned these as some of the progressive reforms he wants to substitute for reaction:

Direct primaries; exemption from taxation of incomes less than $25.000 a year; reorganization of the state government; welfare legislation for women and children; home rule for cities; local control of transit and other public utilities; state development of water power; terminal markets to reduce the cost of living.

VISITORS TAKE IN GOLF LINKS AS WELL AS HOTEL

The fact that so many of the men down here fo the hotel opening have brought their golf clubs along is proof to F. P Scales, president of the Middlesboro Country Club, that the visitors realize that Middlesboro excels, not only in hotels but in golf courses

Mr. Scales said, at 9 o'clock this morning, that the golf course was already filling up and that he expected the players to be there all day. A number of them, he added, had remarked about what a splendid course this one is and had said that they were coming back to Middlesboro again, if for nothing but another golf game on such picturesque and well laid out links.

Among those who are playing today are Attorney General C. J. Dawson of Frankfort, Frank Dugan of Louisville, T. A. Bell of Indianapolis, G. L. McDonald of Louisville and Martin Gerhat of Louisville.

FIRE AT CALLISON'S EXTINGUISHED BEFORE MUCH DAMAGE DONE

Because Joe McGarragh, colored porter, started to work this morning at 5:30 o'clock the J. W. Callison furniture store was saved from a fire which would have run into the thousands of dollars. As it is, the damage figures within the two hundred dollar mark.

Smoke was boiling out of the windows of the operating room of the Callison Undertaking department and Joe McGarragh went to investigate. He then called J Rosenfield and George Callison. By use of fire extinguishers and water the three put out the flames.

They found that the fire had started from a flue in the operating room which is connected with the upstairs rooms. They think that during the night fire had fallen from the flue and smouldered until the early morning hour.

A four foot square was burned in the floor and two joices were burned through. The room which was spotlessly white is smut-covered and scorched. No damage was done the great store of fine coffins in an adjoining room or the thousands of dollars worth of fine furniture and rugs across the hall and upstairs.

The fire department came in good time but arrived after the fire was out.

M. H. S, FOOTBALL LINEUP IS CHANGED

Ginsburg Shifted To Tackle and McWilliams to Full—Boys Get Hard Workout.

The M H. S Football squad went through a hard workout yesterday afternoon under Coaches Porter and Wetherell. The line was first given more drilling on charging, blocking and breaking the line, then the backfield and ends were given practice on passes and end runs

Some new plays have been given the boys which are expected to be worked in the Richmond and Stanford games. Signal practice was held for half an hour then followed about 45 minutes of hard scrimmage with both coaches driving the men for all they were worth.

Several changes have been made in the lineup for Saturday, most noteworthy of which is the shifting of Jimmy Ginsburg, star fullback, to the position of tackle, with McWilliams taking his place at full, Vanbeber and Faulkner playing halves and Griffith, quarter. This is expected to strengthen the line noticeably.

The town people are becoming very interested in football as the season progresses and now many may be seen on the sidelines every evening watching the scrimmage.

PRIORITY ORDER ON LAKE SHIPMENTS

Necessary to Get Supplies in By Close of Season, Dec. 1—Coal Business at Par Here.

Local coal companies received notice today that the fuel administrator had issued a priority order for all coal shipments to the lakes so that they might get in all necesary supplies before the close of the lake season, around December 1. However, the season will be prolonged as long as the weather permits

Most of the coal from the Middlesboro fields is going to the lake region now and this has been the chief market for several months. Later, shipments will be directed to the industrial centers in the east, Pennsylvania and New York particularly, and to Detroit, Toledo and middle west manufacturing cities.

Coal business here continues "about the same." Those mines with railroad contracts, especially the ones served by the Southern, are getting more cars and some of them are running five or six days a week Others are doing well to get cars one day a week.

COAL IN ENGLAND BECOMING DEARER—PRICES HIGHER

By Associated Press

London, Nov 9.—Coal prices in England probably will reach the highest level in history during the coming winter, according to London retail dealers. A general increase of three shillings a ton was made recently, and another will be announced within the next few weeks, it is expected.

The price of the best hard coal is 57 shillings, about $12.00 a ton, graduating to 45 shillings for kitchel coal The highest prices last year for the same grades was 61 shillings and 48 shilling A further increase of six shillings may be looked for.

The labor trouble and the forecast of an early and severe winter are given as the reasons for the added cost.

HORSESHOE PITCHING GAINS FAVOR AS MAJOR SPORT

Horseshoe pitching is developing into an all year major sport.

In the north it goes big during the summer months. In the south it holds sway from November until May.

St Petersburg, Fla, which stages a national tournament will soon have the finest horseshoe pitching courts in the world.

Forty-eight Barnyard Golf lones are being laid out in Waterfront Park situated on the shores of Tampa Bay Giant palms have been planted alongside the courts, which will serve as a protection against the sub-tropical mid winter sun.

St. Petersburg is spending $10,000 in laying out the new playgrounds for its winter visitors. A club-house of oriental design is being erected for the use of the horseshoe devotees.

The lanes are 40 feet in length and the pegs are Ford axles buried in concrete blocks and sunk into the ground. Eight inches of the peg protrude above the sand.

James T. Flower, vice president of the National Association of Horseshoe Pitchers, is due here from Akron O., this month to take charge of the preliminary arrangements for the fifth annual tournament scheduled for the week of February 22.

Prizes to be awarded winners in the meet will be well over the $5000 mark.

A THOUGHT

The Lord preserveth the simple; I was brought low, and he helped me. Psalm 116:6.

A consciousness of the whole is the sign of a sound mind; and there is nothing more to be desired at the present moment.—Plato.

NEW CUMBERLAND HOTEL OPENING

With the opening of the New Cumberland Hotel here today, the finest building of its kind in this part of the country, we feel that Middlesboro is taking a distinct step forward. We congratulate the stockholders of the hotel and the management for the excellent manner in which the details of building and furnishing have been worked out and we express our appreciation to them for their pride and confidence in the city as shown by putting such an establishment here.

Such a hotel located here, means that dozens of travelers will stop in Middlesboro every week who otherwise would have passed the city up. More travelers will mean that our city will become more widely known and, because they will judge the city by the excellence of the hotel, more favorably known. So it is that the hotel will react as a distinct social and economic adition to our city.

Besides, we should consider what it means to the citizens here to have such a beautiful place to show visitors and entertain them in, and to enjoy personally, just for the sheer loveliness of the place.

The past ten months have seen completed in Middlesboro four buildings of superior quality. These are the National Bank building, the Manring theater, the new Shelburne Drug Co. store and now the hotel. This is an advance that few towns any where near our size can point to and we, with pride, point to these accomplishments and predict even greater changes in the next ten months.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK DECEMBER 3-9

Sponsored by the Bureau of Education, the National Education Association and the American Legion, a drive to assist educators, and educational items and methods will be conducted in December from the second to the the states and the people in the states are to be called to action in favor of education by a presidential proclamation, according to plans made public by the Hon. J. J. Tigert, commissioner of education. Each day of the campaign is to be dedicated to some one particular educational work.

One of the results hoped for from the drive is an increased public consciousness of the need of more money spent on the schools. Speaking of this Dr. Frank Ballou, superintendent of schools in the Nation's Capitol, says:

"The financial resources provided for public education are not sufficient to do more than maintain the educational standards existing before the war revealed educational conditions which demand larger appropriations for public education. There is a real danger that the financial burdens of the war are likely to be visited upon the public now in our schools through reduced educational opportunities for them.

"The last Federal census showed there were 4,931,905 illiterates in the United States. Of these 3,094,748 were native born. These figures are not so much an evidence of failure to do well what the school system undertook to do, but rather failure to make the educational system as comprehensive as it ought to be."

POST ELECTION COURTESY

"Hence home, ye idle creatures!"

With the full elections over the lord of the manor or whatever he may call his domicile will, after a night or two, have to fall back upon his old lodge excuse for remaining out at night. The elections will of course have to be held over again by the I Told-You-Soers and the It-It-Had Beeners. Since the ladies have the privilege of voting they are inclined to be a little more tolerant of their lords' and masters' delinquency in the matter of late hours, but there is a limit to this indulgence and the boss will hardly stand for more than two more nights of laying out for which post-election talk may be offered as an excuse. This tolerance is largely due to the fact that the ladies, primarily interested, because of their exercise of the franchise, also like to follow up the aftermath of battles of ballots and if John comes home with some good news or interesting gossip in addition to carrying a small package, the manifestations of victory, the missus may be inclined too be charitable.

But what we started out to say was that elections frequently and unnecessarily engender bitterness between men, arrayed against each other politically, but personally the best of friends. This is not as it should be. Every American citizen is entitled to vote as he pleases, to think as he pleases and he usually exercises those privileges. It is indeed a poor citizen who does not go to the polls and exercise the privilege of voting a privilege that symbolizes freedom, a privilege for which millions have in vain sacrificed their life blood. But in the gall and bitterness of defeat there should be no pouring of vinegar upon sensitive wounds. Defeat itself is sufficient without the painful kidding being superimposed. The rule that really should be observed following elections is to treat the other fellow as you would be treated. This kidding game is carried too far anyhow, and is frequently the cause of bloodshed. Do not sacrifice a friendship over the candidacy of any of any man or the preferment of any party.—Journal and Tribune.

ENGLISH WOMEN ADVISED TO SMOKE PIPES

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 9—English physicians are urging women who are addicted to smoking to use a pipe and good tobacco instead of the cigarette. The doctors point out that the nicotine to be found in the cheaper brands of cigarettes is much more injurious to women than to men and they declare that the perfumes and scents used in brands prepared for the fair sex are also injurious.

Two recent deaths of women have been attributed directly to cigarette smoking. While these cases have been due to excessive smoking, the physicians say that the same amount of pipe smoking probably would not have had fatal results.

Smoking among women in London is now almost universal, and one rarely goes to a theatre, dance or restaurant where the majority of the women present are not smoking.

Recently two young women appeared at an athletic meet smoking pipes, and many of the fashionable shops in Bond Street have exhibited stocks of pipes designed for the feminine smoker. However, the innovation has made little progress, and cigarettes are still the favorite.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

AFTERMATH

By Berton Braley

Now the orators are silenced, now the bands have ceased to play,
Life resumes its even tenor and its old accustomed way.
Fool election bets are settled, campaign banners neatly furled,
We've forgotten half the issues which we thought would "shake the world;"
Ended is the tense excitement which had held us in its thrall,
Though it didn't really matter very greatly, after all.
Many who were in are ousted, many who were out are in;
And the office-seekers cluster 'round the candidates who win.
Prophets spend the time explaining why their prophecies were wrong
And their words are quite unheeded by the highly heedless throng;
Talk of fake and fraud is muttered as the losers vent their gall,
But it really doesn't matter very greatly, after all.
Maybe some election platforms will be carried out in part;
Maybe we shall solve some problems with a little skill and art;
Maybe taxes will grow lighter and the cost of living sag,
But I rather think the public still will hold the well-known bag.
This political campaigning is a sport that comes with fall.
But it really doesn't matter very greatly, after all.

HONEYMOONERS ABROAD

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Suddenly Jack stopped laughing.

"Look here, Nella!" his white face made her shrink back. "If this is a joke on your part—or a foolish game on Edna's part to punish me or frighten me, I want it stopped immediately!"

Experienced actress and intriguer as Nella was there was a tremor in her acting of the vicious little comedy Cousins was staging. But Jack was too keyed up to penetrate her pretense.

"Jack, eh?" she cried. "Well, if this is a joke then Mark has suddenly changed his spots. I am getting sick and tired of his everlasting philandering with every new and pretty face he meets on a train—"

"Just a minute, Nella!" Jack's voice had turned steady and menacing. "You're talking of Edna?"

"Yes, I'm talking of your precious Edna!" Nella stormed. "And you had better do a little talking to her yourself. Carrie Fulton had fallen ill at Tours and I ran down there to look after her. I expected to stay four days, but was forced to get back the day after I got there. I left Mark presumably safely chaperoned by your precious Edna at that respectable American hotel of ours. But as I know Mark I thought I would save the cost of a telegram and come back unannounced. I found that your sweet Edna and my chaste Mark had quietly taken a little trip to Fontainebleau the day before."

Jack stopped as though he were afraid of what he might do to her.

"You don't expect me to believe you?" he asked quietly.

She stepped close to him.

"No. But suppose you telephone Hotel de Caen at Fontainebleau and ask for Madame Durrea," she challenged. "She should be in her room now. You will know her voice."

Jack wavered. Then, wheeling, he rushed into the hotel lobby.

"Get me Hotel de Caen, Fontainebleau, France, please," he said to the telephone operator. "Call me as soon as you hear from them."

He paced the lobby for a quarter quarter of an hour. In the reception room Nella waited. By the time an attendant called Jack to the telephone the young fellow was nearly wild with tension.

"Hello," he spoke into the receiver. "Is this Hotel de Caen?"

"Oui, monsieur," came a Frenchman's reply, "'O is it that you wish?"

There was a pause. "Is she there?" There was a pause. Is she there? There was a pause. "Yes, monsieur She's in her room. Hold ze telephone."

"Yes. What is it?"

It was the voice of Mark Stanley.

The Jolly Miller knew nothing.

The Farmer on His Gray Mare knew nothing.

It was Simple Simon, after all, who gave them an idea.

"Why, it's as easy as can be," he told them. "Whenever you wish to find anything don't go to the place you expect to find it at all! Profit by my experience! When I want a whale do I go to the ocean? No, sir; I get my mother's pail.

"If I look for plums do I go to the orchard? No, sir, I go to the thistle-patch."

"Then where shall we look for Mother Goose's broom?" asked Nancy eagerly.

"Not up in the sky, that's certain," nodded Simple Simon.

"Look down on the ground. Ask Scare-Crow, and Jack O'Lantern, and Snow-Man, and Tailor's Dummy, and Jumping Jack and Jack and Wooden Soldier."

The Twins thanked him and said they would take his advice.

Then they swung themselves down to the earth by a giant cobweb and continued their search.

"What jewelry?"

"The jewels Quintana was after. But that was after she had arrived at the Dump, here, leaving Quintana to get free of the trap and beat it.

"That's how I met her — half crazed, going to find Quintana again. We had found Mike in Drowned Valley and were bringing him out when I ran into Eve. I brought her back here and called Ghost Lake. They haven't picked up Quintana's tracks so far."

After a silence: "Too bad this snow came so late," remarked Trooper Lannis. But we ought to get Quintana anyway."

Darragh went over to the casket and looked silently at Mike Clinch.

"I like you," he said under his breath. "It wasn't your fault. And it wasn't mine, Mike I'll try to square things. Don't worry."

He came back slowly to where Stormont was standing near the door:

"Jack," he said, "you can't marry Eve on a trooper's pay. Why not quit and take over the Harrod estate? You and I can go into business later if you like."

After a pause: "That's rather wonderful of you, Jim," said Stormont, "but you don't know what sort of business man I would make—"

"I know what sort of officer you made. I'm taking no chance. And I will make my peace with Eve—or somebody will do it for me. Is it settled then?"

"Thanks," said Trooper Stormont, reddening. They clasped hands. Then Stormont went about and lighted candles in the room Clinch's face, again revealed, was still faintly amused at something or other. The dead have much to be amused at.

As Darragh was about to go, Stormont said: "We're burying Clinch at eleven tomorrow morning. The Ghost Lake Pilot officiates."

"I'll come if it won't upset Eve," said Darragh.

"She won't notice anybody, I fancy," remarked Stormont.

He stood by the veranda and watched Darragh take the Lonk Trail thru the snow. Finally the glimmer of his swinging lantern was lost in the woods and Stormont mounted the stairs once more, stood silently by Eve's open door, realized she was still heavily sleeping, and seated imself on a chair outside her door to watch and wait.

All night long it snowed hard over the Star Pond country, and the late gray of morning revealed a blinding storm pelting a white robed world.

Toward ten o'clock, Stormont, on guard, noticed that Eve was growing restless.

Downstairs the flotsam of the forest had gathered again: Mr. Lyken was there in black gloves; the Reverend Laomi Smatter had arrived in a sleigh from Ghost Lake. Both were breakfasting heavily.

The pretty sulky faced girl fetched a tray and placed Eve's breakfast on it; and Trooper Stormont carried it to her room.

She was awake when he entered her room. He sat the tray on the table. She put both arms around his neck.

"Jack," she murmured, her eyes tremulous with tears.

"Everything has been done. Will you be ready at eleven?" he said.

She clung to him in silence for a while.

At eleven he knocked on her door. She opened it. She wore her black model gown and a black fur turban. Some of her pallor remained—traces of tears and bluish smears under both eyes. But her voice was steady.

"Could I see Dad a moment alone?"

"Of course."

She took his arm; they descended the stairs. There seemed to be many people about the place but she did not lift her eyes until her lover led her into the dance hall where Clinch lay smiling in his mysterious way.

In a terrific snow-storm they buried Mike Clinch on the spot he had selected, in order that he might keep a watchful eye upon the trespassing ghost of old man Harrod.

It blew and stormed and stormed and the thin, nasal voice of Rev. Smatter was utterly lost in the wind. The slanting lances of snow drove down on the casket, building a white mound over the flowers, blotting the hemlock boughs from sight.

There was no time to be lost now; the ground was freezing under a veering and bitter wind out of the west. Mr. Lyken's talented assistants had some difficulty in shaping the mound which snow began to make into a white flawless monument.

The last slap of the spade rang with a metallic jar across the lake, where snow already blotted the newly forming film of ice; the human denizens of the wilderness filtered through it one by one; Rev. Smatter got into his sleigh, plainly concerned about the load; Mr. Lyken betrayed unprofessional haste in loading his wagon with his talented assistants and starting for Ghost Lake.

Kiwanis Club Congratulates The New Hotel Cumberland

The Kiwanis Club of Middlesboro extends to the stockholders of the New Cumberland Hotel sincere thanks for the magnificent hotel they have given our city

To the lessees, we extend our hearty congratulations, They have proven beyond a question of doubt their faith and confidence in our city, when they assumed a twenty year lease of the hotel, believing that they would succeed if only the best wishes for success, and with what has already been provided we are confident there is no such word as FAIL

Upon the site of the old Cumberland Hotel which was destroyed by fire, there has been erected a hotel, which, with its furnishings and equipment, represents an expenditure of over $3,00,000.

What does this mean? Only one thing—confidence in the future of Middlesboro, and it is the earnest hope of every member of the Kiwanis Club that this confidence will be rewarded and that the hotel will prosper as no other hotel in the land has prospered

We are justly proud of this hotel, for did not the Kiwanis Club either take or sell $100,000 worth of life insurance so that the hotel company could raise this amount of money to assist them in enlarging the building and make the hotel one of the most magnificent of its size to be found anywhere?

Our club will be located in the hotel from now on, with our first luncheon November 16, and glad we are too, that we have as one of our members, the resident manager of the hotel, Mr Schenck.

The Kiwanis Club, as BUILDERS, extends to you, the owners, lessees and management our appreciation for your confidence in our city and may you prosper well.

RESCUE HOME CARES FOR JUVENILE GREEK BEGGARS

By Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The art of soliciting alms probably is more highly developed in Constantinople than anywhere else in the Near East, according to the Humane Review, publication of the American Humane Society.

A small house on a narrow cobblestone street in the market district of Beshiktashe has been selected by the Near East Relief as a rescue home for juvenile Greek beggars of the city. They are gathered from the highways and byways under unspeakable conditions sometimes only after the allied police have been called to separate the children from their associates.

In this home 65 little girls are being cared for. Filthy, dirty, covered with vermin, undernourished and then sometimes diseased, they behaved at first more like little animals than human beings.

They grabbed their food in handfuls and choked it down fearing that some other children would snatch it away. Most of them didn't know what a bed was, preferring from force of habit, to curl up on the floor and go to sleep.

Three months of American ways prove that wonders can be accomplished in a wholesome, healthy environment. After being carefully nourished and brought back to health, they are almost unrecognizable, so great is the change.

FORMAL OPENING HOTEL CUMBERLAND TODAY

NEW CUMBERLAND IS OUTGROWTH OF THE OLD HOTEL

Corporation Formed of Local People Finances New Building Which Cost Two Hundred And Fifty Thousand.

FURNISHINGS CALLED MOST BEAUTIFUL IN KENTUCKY

"The most beautifully furnished hotel in Kentucky," is the phrase that is being used repeatedly to describe the New Cumberland Hotel which has been completed and is holding today and tonight its formal opening. This building, construction on which has been in progress for a little over a year, is the fulfillment of a dream for a hotel in Middlesboro which would to this city fastidious patrons from all over the state and country.

The idea of a new hotel of thi kind here was advanced after the old Cumberland burned down in the spring of 1921 and there was no longer a hotel of this kind in the down town section. So a group of persons, many of whom had been stockholders in the old Cumberland, formed a corporation to build a new hotel on this same site. There were twenty persons in the original corporation and this number has since grown to twenty-seven. The capital stock was originally $150,000 and the plan was for a three-story hotel. Construction began in October. Then, in the early part of this year it was decided to build another story and make additions in several places. $100,000 more was needed for these changes, and this money was secured from a life insurance company on condition that $100,000 worth of life insurance be sold in Middlesboro as security. The Kiwanis Club put this sale over.

The building committee, which has done most of the management in the hotel's construction, was composed of E. P. Nicholson, was composed of E. P. Nicholson, J. M. Rogan and F. D. Hart, Jr.

M. Todes of St. Louis, owner and part owner of a number of hotels throughout the country, became interested in this hotel last spring, through a furnishings salesman and came here to see it. He liked the place so well that he decided to lease it for twenty years and furnish it and run it. George F. Schenck, assistant manager of the Hotel Henry Watterson of Louisville, was installed as manager here and, in spite of delays in shipments, work was pushed to a finish.

BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS RAISE FLAG ON HOTEL THIS MORNING

With the orchestra playing "Star Spangled Banner," and the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts standing at attention, singing, the flag, presented to the New Cumberland Hotel by the National Bank of Middlesboro, was raised at 7:45 o'clock this morning.

Thus the day of the formal opening of Kentucky's finest hotel—Middlesboro's gala day—entered with due ceremony.

At the close of the singing the troops repeated the pledge of allegiance to the flag:

"I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible; with liberty and justice for all."

Both troops marched to the hotel from Fountain Square. Scout leaders present were:

Mrs. W. E. Stair, Mrs. H. H. Saunders and L. D. Rouser.

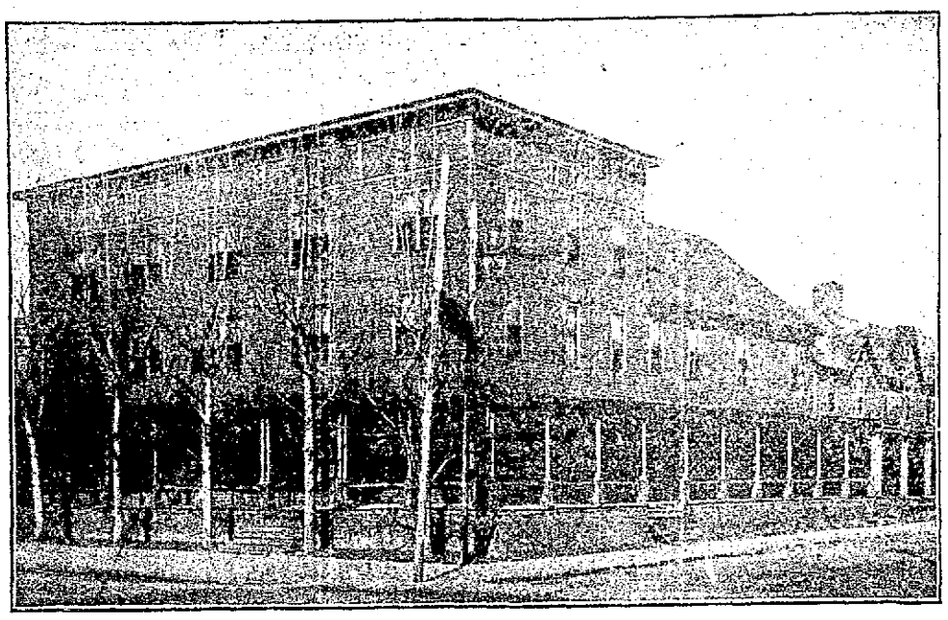
OLD CUMBERLAND HOTEL HAD NO FORMAL OPENING



No elaborate ball or banquet marked the opening of the Old Cumberland Hotel which stood on the site of the New Cumberland Hotel. In fact this building of fourteen rooms was occupied long before it was completed.

Shelter. Thas is what the old Cumberland Hotel meant to Middlesboro then. It was built by Chas. Clay of Lexington in October 1889 just before the first public sale of lots in the boom days. There were 8,000 people attempting to live in the twenty buildings or big tents.

The Old Cumberland originally had fourteen rooms, no modern conveniences, and was located on Eighteenth street joining the alley next to where the F. P. Scales, Inc., garage is located.

Carpets and rugs were hung up to the windows and doors to keep out the cold so that the people could move in to the new hotel. Dinner was served while the carpenters were yet pounding partitions in the dining room.

Because of the great demand for rooms and board no reductions were made in the rate to regular boarders. The rate is remembered by some of Middlesboro's oldest citizens as being very high for those years. Rooms were $2.50 and $3 per day and board was $1 per meal.

F. D. Hart, Jr., purchased the hotel in 1900 and in 1904 an addition of 50 rooms was built over to Cumberland avenue. Hot and cold water and bath and telephones in every room were added. The valuation of the hotel then was $20,000 and it was the only modern hotel between Knoxville and Lexington.

The hotel was a great trading center. Speculators and investors from everywhere in the country would gather there and bid on Middlesboro lots. Judge Sampson says he can remember many a day when thousands and thousands of lots were put up.

Then a group of citizens began talking of a finer hotel. Architects were brought here to discuss the situation. The lot now occupied by the National Bank of Middlesborough was one of the sites talked of for a bigger hotel. Other sites were that one occupied by the First Baptist, and one now occupied by the Altman fruit stand. The final site talked of was that of the Old Cumberland. With the new hotel in mind the hotel was purchased from F. D. Hart, Jr. in 1920. The men who purchased it were W. E. Cubell, J. J. Manring, Jacob Schultz, M. E. Brown, Major E. S. Helburn, H. L. and Wm. Mitchell and R. E. Howe.

March 18, 1921 the old Cumberland Hotel burned. Attention was then turned to building the proposed new hotel after the ideas previously planned. Construction was started January 1922.

boro's third hotel. In order Middlesboro's hotels have been, European, Hotel D'Hors, Cumberland Hotel, Tyler, The Middlesborough, Old View and New Cumberland Hotel.

CHARLES I. DAWSON FIRST TO REGISTER AT HOTEL CUMBERLAND

The new Cumberland Hotel was open for the first time last night. The Hon. C. I. Dawson of Frankfort was the first to enter his name on the register.

The complete working staff of sixty people were in their respective places from the manager to the colored bell hop.

R. B. Jones of the Watterson Hotel in Louisville came in today for the formal opening tomorrow night.

Names on the register last night took in a wide scope of territory: Frankfort, Chicago, Evansville, Cincinnati, Nashville, Indianapolis, New Tazewell, Winchester, Louisville, St. Louis, Le Junior, Roanoke, Bluefield Omaha, and Paris.

MEN AND HORSES SLEPT TOGETHER IN FIRST HOTEL

A hotel and a livery stable is a peculiar combination and one hardly desirable by those people wishing to stay in an up-to-date place. But that is what Middlesboro's first hotel European Hotel, happened to be.

This hotel was located where The Friends Hotel now stands. Horses were kept on first floor and roomers slept above. The hotel was what might be called an emergency building. The boom days brought many speculators and adventurers to Middlesboro and there was no place for them to stay. Older Middlesboro citizens today tell of the high prices roomers and boarders had to pay in the inconvenient structures called hotels.

Actors look forward to this winter. The audiences will applaud to keep their hands warm.

THE Pocket Billiard Tables at the New Cumberland Hotel are the finest and offer a healthful and enjoyable form of diversion.

Comfortable accommodations and good fellowship prevail and it is an ideal meeting place for men. Make this your headquarters and have your friends come, too. A hearty welcome always—and you'll enjoy the game as well as the cheerful surroundings.

Of a special interest at this time is the opening of the Beautiful New Cumberland Hotel, the draperies which were planned and executed by us. Designed to conform to the furnishing, the entire shows the Georgian influence.

Soft, shimmering, lustrous silk at the glass, gorgeous Sunburst on the transoms, rich, heavy Damasks for the hangings with Lambrequins of deep pile Velour that reflect the true spirit of the period.

The glass curtains are of Casement silk, equally impervious to the scorching rays of the most blazing sun or the roughest handling of the severest tubbing. They are plaited and trimmed and we take a pardonable pride in the workmanship.

The overhangings are of three tone Damask, of gold black and mulberry and are unusually attractive, classical in design, harmonious in color and decorative to the last degree. They are lined with heavy sateen and gracefully draped with large mulberry silk tassels and heavy cord.

The lambrequins of rich Sun Fast Mulberry Velour, carefully selected for the Harmonious coloring, are shaped to the circular windows and greatly enhance the architectural beauty and design.

The Lobby and Dining Room show the straight lines of the buckrum valance while the Dining room and Ladies Parlor are of the clinging festoon type.

Our staff of highly trained and experienced decorators are at the demand of the public and will gladly co-operate in the planning of any decorative problem from the simplest treatments to the more pretentious furnishings of the modern home.

HUMANE ASSOCIATION HAS MORE THAN 500 CHAPTERS

By Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Since the first meeting of the American Humane Association in Cleveland, October 9, 1877, the organization has grown until there are more than 500 active anticruelty societies in the United States according to a report issued here by officials of the organization.

At the time this association was organized child protection work was yet in its incipiency and the movement in behalf of the protection of animals had only recently started, th report stated.

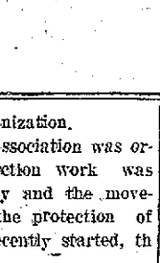
The interval from the beginning until now has been occupied by intense activities and development on the part of the humane movement. It is easy now to gauge the practical advancement of the humane cause.

From the zero point our work has grown until there are more than 500 active anticruelty societies in the United States. The annual income of our societies has increased to over a million dollars. There is an army of paid employes and voluntary agents. Many of our societies own buildings, the aggregate value of which runs into millions of dollars. Endowments amount to over four million dollars.

Aggressive warfare has been carried on to protect the rights of children and to give them ample opportunity to be fitted for the battle of life. The interest in animal protection also has vastly increased.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:



"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes.

Note: Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, BA-25, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache often means you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood, and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once, or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

TODES PRAISES STOCKHOLDERS

Says Their Work Made Building Success—Plans "All Year Round" Hotel.

Praise of the Hotel Cumberland's stockholders for their initial work and consequent co-operation was the most that M. Todes, the hotel's lessee, had to say about the matter. It was because this group of men so impressed him that Mr. Todes decided to lease the hotel after his trip down here to look at it.

That H. A. McCamy assured the financial status of the hotel at the most critical point, that H. P. Nicholson and J. M. Rogan, by their untiring efforts had made the construction of it a success, and that the rest of the stockholders had combined to make it a go, was Mr. Todes' declaration. He says that he has taken more care, because of these men, in planning this hotel, than any of his others, and that instead of spending $50,000 on its furnishings as they requested, he has spent $80,000.

Mr. Todes is a man of unusually pleasing personality and his popularity in Middlesboro has been established since his first visit here. He came then at the recommendation of a hotel furnishings salesman who told him of the new building and of the fine opportunity there was here for a hotel. After two trips he was so well satisfied with things here that he signed the lease of the new hotel for 20 years. Mr. Todes emphasizes that this is to be an all the year around hotel, although special plans will be made for entertainment and accommodations during the summer.

Mr. Todes is a man of wide hotel experience. He has three other hotels in Kentucky, the Watterson and Plaza in Louisville, and the Montgomery in Mt. Sterling. He is planning for two more in the state now. Besides these he has a number throughout the east and the south.

MIDDLESBORO WELL AROUSED OVER HOTEL OPENING HERE TONIGHT

Those persons who declare that Middlesboro is too inured in indifference to become aroused over anything have certainly figured without a possible hotel opening. Never has there been such a general upheaval.

Men have been at work on the city streets the past two days diligently cleaning them and getting them in shape to serve as fitting avenues of egress to the new hotel. Stores and places of business have nearly all had their windows washed and redecorated and have cleaned up in general.

Everyone is buying a new dress, or suit, or shoes, or hat, to be in keeping with the occasion. And it is by no means only the women who are making these preparations. Men's clothiers say that they have never had so many orders for new suits, especially new tuxedoes, as in the last month. While no woman who intends to be at the opening tonight, has of course, thought of anything else for six weeks.

The Mahdi is, to Mohammadans, the expected messenger of Allah to complete Mohammed's work by converting the world to his religion or exterminating unbelievers, and equitably to divide all mundane goods.

Manager Schenk Has Wide Experience in Big Hotels

George W. Schenck, manager of the new Cumberland Hotel, has been connected with the largest hotels in the country since 1896 He comes to Middlesboro from the Henry Watterson in Louisville where he had been assistant manager since 1902.

In speaking of the hotel Mr. Schenck says that for a commercial hotel it is the finest equipped and most thoroughly modern of any hotel in Kentucky or Tennessee. The New Cumberland, he says, has a particular fine part to play in helping Middlesboro attract hundreds of tourists People who heretofore avoided Middlesboro because of the inadequate accommodations will now come here, he says

Mr. Scehnck says he has plans under way at the present time of extensively advertising to reach the tourists for the summer months. The advertising he says will call attention to the natural resources of Middlesboro, the historic setting as well as the accommodations.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Schenck say they are delighted with the climate and location of the town, and many are the enthusiastic remarks they make about the hospitality of the citizens here

Mr. Schenck says hotel work is delightful in that you always get to meet people and he says there is a particular charm in meeting and catering to the many different guests

More than 400 reservations have been made for the formal opening tonight One of the disappointments, however. was the loss of 300 invitations in the parcel post. Mr. Schenck says he hopes that this loss will not keep many visitors away who were not reached with an invitation. The opening, he says, will compare favorably with that of other hotels with which he has been connected.

GEORGE F. SCHENK

Among the hotels with which Mr. Schenck has been connected are: Fillbeck Hotel, of 200 rooms, Terre Haute, Ind., 1896, Terre Haute House, Terre Haute, Ind., 350 rooms, 1897; In 1898 he entered the Spanish American was as captain of Company G of the 71st New York regiment. After he returned from war he was connected with the following hotels: Katterskill House, Catskill Mountains, 800 rooms, 1900; John V. Stetson House, College Arms, De Land, Fla, 650 rooms; Fifth Avenue Hotel, Louisville, 200 rooms; Maxwell House. Nashville, 350 rooms; Hermitage Hotel, Nashville, 300 rooms; Watterson Hotel, Louisville, 250 rooms.

MRS. E. G. SHEAFER ONLY WOMAN STOCK HOLDER IN NEW HOTEL

Mrs. E. G. Sheafer has the distinction of being the only woman stockholder in the Hotel Cumberland corporation. More than this, she was the first stockholder to pay in full for her stock and the first certificate was issued to her by the president, Dr. Jacob Schultz.

"When the old Cumberland was still burning," said Mrs. Sheafer, "Dr. Schultz came up to me and said, 'Now what are we going to do for a hotel?' 'Why, build another one,' I said. 'Well,' said Dr. Schultz, 'how will we do that?' 'I will subscribe $5000 right now,'" Mrs. Sheafer said she replied. And so the nucleus was formed from which the magnificent new hotel evolved.

"If it is a failure I suppose I shall be the jonah," said Mrs. Sheafer, "since I am the only woman in the corporation."

Says Pitching Runs in Cycles

Pitching runs in cycles. The major leagues constantly vary as to their pitching strength.

Dick Kerr of the Chicago White Sox, perhaps the most valuable southpaw in the organization, spent last year in the independent ranks because of a salary difference.

Heimach of the Athletics, Pennock of Boston, Pruett of St. Louis, Mogridge of Washington and Oldham of Chicago, are the best of a very ordinary lot.

There is no southpaw in the American League who registers up to the caliber of Cooper of Pittsburg, Neinf of New York and Rixey of Cincinnati.
